

bengaluru CHRONICLE

THURSDAY 2 | JULY 2015

DECCAN CHRONICLE

Ever thought of sashaying in style whilst saving some pennies and the planet? Samridhi Agarwal's stylish initiative does just that. After pulling off the global Street Store concept in the city that allowed the underprivileged to shop for free with dignity and only pay with their smiles, this 24-year-old Bengalurean's virtual closet now allows you to sell anything from clothing, accessories and bags for instant cash or shop popular brands for up to 80 per cent off retail. Adding wedding couture to the mix, this has now become an inventory for designer wear from across the globe!

"One day, not very long ago, I stood and stared at the enormity of my closet. Being married for about a week, I wanted to give a fresh start to my wardrobe as well," says an inspired Samridhi.

Continued on glam-sh

19

Musthafa PC

Recipe for freshness

Full story on Palate Pleasures page 24-25